The first annual One Young World Summit is taking place February 8-10 in London, England. 1500 young leaders from 192 countries will gather to discuss the most pressing global issues and how to solve them.

Under the guidance of counselors from the academic, business, political, and activist world, delegates will attend plenary sessions where they will develop resolutions for the topics discussed during the conference, and an action plan for sharing these resolutions with their respective countries. Counselors are world renowned leaders in their field. All plenary sessions will be live streamed and micro-blogged on One Young World's Twitter page (@oneyoungworld or #oneyoungworld).
